

Reproductive Justice: What Social Workers Need to Know

A Continuing Education workshop hosted by Spence-Chapin featuring training by Dr. Erica Goldblatt Hyatt, DSW, LCSW, MBE, Rutgers School of Social Work.

Tuesday, September 12, 2023
10:00AM – 1:00PM EST

This virtual workshop hosted by Spence-Chapin in collaboration with Rutgers School of Social Work will introduce, define, and explore the tenets of Reproductive Justice and how they directly apply to social work advocacy and practice. A framework developed by minoritized groups in the 1990s, Reproductive Justice moves the abortion discourse beyond “choice” and considers the elements that contribute to or hinder true bodily autonomy: the right to have a child, the right to not have a child, and the right raise a child in safe and healthy environments. As Reproductive Justice especially considers the impact of legislation, policy, and intervention on vulnerable communities, it is especially relevant during today’s socio-political climate. Concrete suggestions for advocacy and intervention will also be provided.

To register, please contact Talia Oren at Toren@spence-chapin.org

Zoom link will be provided to all attendees after registration.

The Rutgers School of Social Work will provide 3 CE hours for New York and New Jersey social workers.

This event is sponsored by:

SPENCE-CHAPIN
Services to Families and Children

